

Knäuper, Bärbel

Bärbel Knäuper (<http://www.psych.mcgill.ca/perpg/fac/knaeuper/>) is associate professor of psychology in the Department of Psychology at McGill University in the health psychology program and an adjunct assistant research scientist at the Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan. Her research examines the influence of motives, goals and desires on health cognitions and behaviors. Her methodological interests and expertise include the design of standardized questionnaires and self-report validity.