

Sikkel, Dirk

Dirk Sikkel was professor of methodology at the University of Amsterdam and Tilburg University and in this capacity also served as director of CentERdata. Currently he is director of statistical consultancy company Sixtat. His current interests are marketing research on the baby boomer market and the development of computer assisted questionnaires in natural language. Recent publications include articles on values and credibility and a book on mature marketing.