

Vehovar, Vasja

Vasja Vehovar is a professor of statistics at the Faculty of Social Sciences at University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. He completed his studies at the University of Ljubljana, University of Essex, UK and was a Fulbright Scholar at the ISR, University of Michigan. His research interests spans into two directions: survey methodology and research on information society. He coordinated the EU framework programme WebSM, which built the corresponding website on methodology of Web surveys (<http://websm.org>). He is also the founder (1996) of the RIS project (Research of Internet in Slovenia, <http://ris.org>), which is the central information point for information society indicators in Slovenia. More info is available on <http://vasja.ris.org>.